Pastor's Reflection

Re-Calibration for Prayer at the pace of the Holy Spirit!

When I begin to experience tension or a lack of focus in my prayer—especially when it lasts for several days—I ask myself four simple questions. I call them my “re-calibration questions.”

It is easy to become spiritually misaligned, particularly when life is busy. If I answer yes to any of these questions, it is usually a sign that I need to adjust my prayer life and make a few intentional corrections to return to the pace of the Holy Spirit.

1. Have I eased up too much on a good practice I once had?

(Have I allowed a good spiritual habit to slip away?)

Solution: Bring this to prayer and intentionally re-engage that good habit.

2. Am I fast-forwarding through my day?

(Am I mentally rushing through my responsibilities—and even through my prayer time?)

Solution: Re-anchor yourself in the present moments and pray from where you are.

3. Am I creating my own rewards?

(Am I focusing more on earthly comforts or purchases rather than allowing God to provide spiritual joy?)

Solution: Consider a no-spend day. Plan ahead, avoid any unnecessary purchases or online browsing, and use that time for prayer instead.

4. Am I overemphasizing one part of my day while allowing other things to diminish?

(For example, too much work and not enough prayerful contemplation.)

Solution: Re-adjust your daily plan so that prayer, work, and rest remain in a holy balance.

“Survey the path for your feet, and all your ways will be sure.”--Proverbs 4:26
